

FEAL Executive Education Scholarship

Module 6: Strategic Planning for Fund Executives

London Business School

22–27 August 2010

FEAL exists to support leaders in the superannuation industry. Building on that commitment, FEAL members are invited to apply for a scholarship to undertake the next installment of the FEAL Melbourne Business School Executive Education Program. The six-day program, Strategic Planning for Fund Executives, will be taught in residence at the globally renowned London Business School between 22–27 August 2010. The scholarship, made possible with the continuing support of our partner AMP Capital Investors, covers the costs of tuition, return airfares and accommodation.

This module has been customised to meet the specific needs of fund executives. The six-day program will provide participants a comprehensive understanding of both the theory and application of strategic management tools and principles. Through lectures, case studies and innovative case-in-point methodologies students will discover practical approaches to developing and implementing strategy. Participants will learn how to apply models and frameworks to challenge their traditional thinking, improve their own decision making processes and deliver better outcomes for their organisations.

Scholarship Recipient 2010

Brian Delaney from AMP Capital Investors with Scholarship recipient Jim Monahas.

"The Melbourne Business School 'Leading Change module' exceeded my already high expectations. The course content, case study reviews and the practical peer group discussions all contributed to the valuable learning experience. Many thanks to AMP Capital and FEAL for supporting the professional development of Leaders in Super."
